Southern Democratic Anglo-Saxon Lawyer Sought in Negro Case

WASHINGTON — Northern defenders of the Negro are quietly looking around for a good liberal Southern Democrat with an Anglo-Saxon name to take over the defense of the seven negroes in the Scottsboro case.

Their defenders are tired of supporting lawyers with Communist affiliations or foreign names, have made up their minds to get someone with the standing of John W. Davis.

What has brought this decision is the arrest of the two defense lawyers for alleged attempted bribery of Georgia Price, a white woman who accuses the seven Negroes.

The two lawyers are supposed to be affiliated with the Communist party, which unquestionably has used the Scottsboro case for its own ends.

It is not supposed to be known, but some members of the Supreme Court would be glad to see a final test of whether Negroes shall be permitted to serve on juries; therefore would have welcomed a review of the Scottsboro case with the issue unclouded by extraneous matter.

Habit

Jim Reed, once a doughty liberal, now a millionaire, dislikes the NRA even more than the New Deal.

Jim's recent bride, the former Mrs. Nellie Donnelly, owns and operates the Nell Don dress manufacturing company. Her dresses come under the jurisdiction of two codes: cheap grades under a sub-code of the cotton garment industry, more expensive gowns under a code of their own.

The Nell Don, and a number of other concerns, make dresses that overlap both codes. So after much debate the NRA has promulgated a new order, designed to settle these jurisdictional questions.

Jim, accompanied by his handsomely attired wife, appeared at the NRA hearing. He acted as her counsel on the proposed ruling. And in the words of an old master, he made his presence felt.

On one occasion, chewing an unlighted cigar, he stalked into a busy office.

"You'll have to clear out of here," he barked at the startled clerk and stenographer. "There is too much noise and confusion. I want to do some work."

Secretarial Union

A lot of people have wondered at the spectacle of genial George Akerson, Hoover's ex-secretary, receiving an appointment under the New Deal. And if they knew the whole story they would wonder more.

The not generally known fact is that Akerson came within a hair's breadth of getting a job with the Republican National Committee, was rescued by the New Deal when the G. O. P. walked out on him.

Four years ago Akerson left Hoover and the White House for a fat salary with Paramount Pictures. But his contract expired just as Roosevelt came into office.

Another Hoover secretary, Walter Newton, was taken care of by Roosevelt as a favor to the departing President. But Akerson was out of luck.

However, there is a camaraderie among White House secretaries, and Steve Early, Roosevelt assistant looked around for a comfortable place for George. Everything was taken. There were too many Democrats and too few jobs.

So Early got some of Akerson's old new cronies to take the matter up with Henry P. Fletcher, Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

At first Fletcher was favorable. But two things happened. First, he discovered that a Democratic Administration, through Steve Early, was trying to dictate who should work for the G. O. P. Second, he decided the hiring of an ex-Hoover secretary would brand the Committee with a definite Hoover label, arouse the wrath of anti-Hoover Republicans.

So Akerson remained out in the cold. In the end, Early had to brave Democratic wrath by offering his secretarial friend a job on the Veterans' Appeal Board.

Then the appointee decided the

A 1934 Kentucky Plate Found Mutilated in Fort Wayne; Investigate

NO WORD RECEIVED Now Believe Kidnapers Not "Professionals"

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 16.—A possible clue in the kidnaping of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll at Louisville, Ky., was believed by police to have been uncovered here today in a mutilated 1934 Kentucky automobile license plate.

The find was made in an alley behind a vacant building in the downtown business district by Edward Bloom, 22, a telegraph company messenger.

The plate had been cut in the middle.

The left half bore the abbreviation "KY" at the top, and below it was the numeral 7.

The other section had the letters "TT" at the top and below this were the numbers 457.

NEAR LOUISVILLE

Police here were working on the theory that the double "TT" represented the ending of the name of a Kentucky county—either Scott or Bullitt.

Either of these counties, it was pointed out, lies near Jefferson-co in which Louisville is located.

As the sixth day passed since the kidnaping of young Mrs. Alice Stoll from her home without word from her abductor, authorities weighed the theory that the ransom note left behind was a deliberate screen planted in an effort to veil the real identity of the kidnaper.

A study of the phraseology of the ransom note suggested to police that the criminal was an educated person who wished to create the impression a professional gang of "snatchers" was behind the kidnaping.

"We are a well-organized unit

7 CALLED IN OTTO PROBE

Mayor Worley, Karns, Other Leaders To Appear Before Grand Jury.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—Seven city officials, including Mayor Henry W. Worley and Frank C. Karns, president of city council, were to appear today before the Franklin-co grand jury when it begins consideration of charges of falsifying city expense accounts against Walter E. Otto, city auditor.

David C. Rupert, special state examiner whose report of Otto's records opened the case, was also called to testify.

The Otto case was the first on the docket for the grand jury. Otto has refused to resign pending the outcome of the investigation, charging that the alleged falsified expense accounts were "frame ups."

TYPHOON SWEEPS SHORE OF ISLAND

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 16.—Untold misery and suffering was reported on every hand late today as one of the worst typhoons in the history of the Philippine islands began to abate.

Hundreds were homeless in Manila as a result of the storm which unroofed business houses and destroyed many homes in the native section of the city, while heavy damage was reported in residential sections.

Streets were blocked with uprooted trees, fallen electric and telephone poles.

Only fragmentary reports, thus far, have been received from the distant provinces of the islands and it was feared damage there will run into millions of dollars.

MOTOR, FAN STOLEN

Police were informed Monday that a motor and fan were stolen from the Smith packing house, Sunday night.

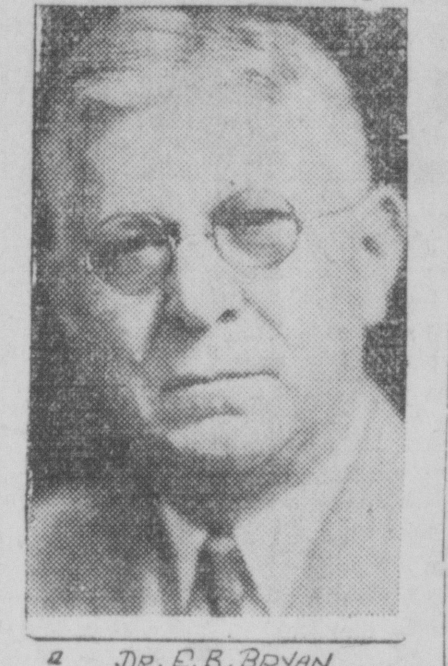

EIGHT AMERICANS IN AUSTRALIA RACE

MILDENHALL AIRPORT, Eng., Oct. 16.—This brand new military airport, was a hive of activity today as pilots of nine nations worked on 15 airplanes which have arrived here in preparation for the England-Australia air race starting next Saturday.

A total of 23 planes will be ready to start by the end of the week it was expected.

Eight American flyers, entering three machines, are set to start. They are Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn in a Boeing 247-D; Jack Wright, John Polando, and William

M'NEAL'S BRIBERY CHARGE IS NOLLED

Parole Hearing is Nov. 1 For Williamsport Man; Two Enter Ohio Pen.

The path seemed clearer today for the release about December 1 of Newell McNeal, Williamsport, from the Ohio penitentiary. An indictment pending against him in common pleas court charging that he attempted to bribe Mrs. Lillian Hot, Darbyville, during his first trial on a statutory charge has been nolle prossed, in other words "killed."

An entry signed by Judge J. W. Adkins and Prosecutor Ray W. Davis has been filed in common pleas court to that effect.

Mr. McNeal's hearing before the parole board is set for Nov. 1. Unless there is some reason why he should not be paroled the actual procedure usually requires somewhat less than a month.

Since the second indictment hanging over his head exists no longer there is nothing in the Pickaway-co courts to impair his chances for parole. Mr. McNeal, if released about Dec. 1, will have served about a year of a one to 20 year term.

Jack Cox, Dayton negro, and Frank Perry, Londonderry farm laborer, were taken to the Ohio penitentiary, Tuesday, by Sheriff Charles Radcliff. Cox begins a term of one to seven years for grand larceny while Perry starts an indeterminate term of one to 20 years on a statutory offense.

RICHARDS ESCAPES

John Richards, sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory from this county a year ago for automobile theft, escaped from the honor camp at Sandusky, October 13, the sheriff's office has been informed.

With Richards in the escape was Clyde Hatch.

TAXI WAR ON IN COLUMBUS

Cruisers, Motorcycles Guarding Taxis Continuing To Run With Meters.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—With every police radio cruiser and motorcycle pressed into service, and plain-clothesmen riding in decoy taxicabs, city officials today attempted to stem the tide of vandalism and assaults on cab drivers resulting from a protest against the use of meters in cabs by two of the taxi companies.

The two concerns withdrew their cabs from the streets yesterday, making 375 drivers idle.

Last night and today police patrolled the streets and guarded other taxis that continued to run with meters. Charles D. Graham and William Friece, both officials of the companies urging the return to the flat rate taxi fare basis, were held on investigation charges by police.

DAVEY'S STAND ON PAROCHIAL SCHOOL AID NOW AWAITED

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—The Ohio electorate looked today to Martin J. Davey, Democratic candidate for governor, for a public statement of his position on the issue of state aid to parochial and private schools. His opponent, Clarence J. Brown, Republican, thrust the issue to the fore by announcing his own "unilateral" opposition to spending public funds for schools not a part of the public schools system.

In his weekly radio address a few hours after Brown made clear his position, the Democratic candidate discussed the needs of the schools at length, but not once did he refer to the subject of parochial state aid.

CREW EXTINGUISHES FIRE ON STEAMSHIP

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—Fire aboard the steamship Point San Pedro was extinguished early today, MacKay radio offices here were advised.

In a message relayed here from Portland, it was said the crew of the Point San Pedro had succeeded in extinguishing the blaze in the cargo holds of the freighter, and the ship was "proceeding to Portland" under her own power.

The message added that the vessel was being "steered by hand" as the damage on the steering gear had not been repaired.

950 STARVING MINERS LEAVE 'GRAVE' TODAY

Jeered by Fellow-workers as Company Agrees to Boost Wages

ALL ARE EXHAUSTED

Two Risk Hostage Fate to End Trouble

PECS, Hungary, Oct. 16.—Back from a living grave today came 950 half-dead miners, to be met at the pitheads with the jeers of their waiting fellows:

"Capitalism has won its victory!" taunted the non-striking miners.

"Not enough! not enough!" agree the straggling men who had spent five days suffocating and starving deep in the dark shafts, barely able to mutter their dissatisfaction at the terms of the relief settlement squeezed from the mine owners.

BAYONETS USED

Bayonets and machine guns of troops kept off anxious relatives and disgruntled comrades as the strikers were quickly shepherded home.

The men were almost too weak to stage any form of demonstration or even to embrace their waiting wives. Practically all went straight to bed, their straw couches a comfortable contrast to the damp shafts and pillows of coal on which they had rested for five days.

Although dissatisfied with the $18,000 relief fund promised immediately by the Danube Steam Navigation Co., owners of the mine, plus another $18,000 before Christmas, the miners were persuaded to give up their mass suicide attempt by two Socialist deputies, Janos Estergalyos and Charles Peyer.

RISKED FATE

Risking the fate of five emissaries who ventured into the mine two days ago and were held as hostages, Estergalyos and Peyer entered the shaft at midnight and told the weakening strikers the terms offered by the owners.

For four hours they argued with the ring leaders, who still preferred death to facing another winter of acute misery. The miners finally yielded to the plea that it would be in the interests of their families and co-workers to give up.

SCIENTIST WOULD RESTORE LIVES OF GASED CRIMINALS

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 16.—Can science bring a dead man back to life?

The gates of the grave were the object of a new assault today by Dr. Robert E. Cornish, one-eyed young Berkeley scientist, whose experiment in revivifying a "dead" dog attracted world-wide attention last April.

Dr. Cornish has addressed letters to the governors of Nevada, Arizona and Colorado asking permission to try his life-giving serum on the bodies executed by lethal gas in those states.

JUNIOR CLASSMEN ELECT HENDERSON

James Henderson, son of Mrs. Bess Henderson, W. Ohio-st., was elected president of the junior class of the high school, Monday afternoon, when the annual class meeting was held.

Soldier Held As Body Of Girl, Buried Alive, Found

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 16.—Pretty Anne Cardile, the 19-year-old unmarried, expectant mother whose battered body was found Sunday night in a shallow grave in the sand near here, was buried alive.

Following an autopsy on the Pleasantville girl's body, Atlantic county authorities declared today that she had died to death from lacerations of the scalp after being interned.

Meanwhile, new mystery was thrown around the brutal "American Tragedy" murder when the man described as her soldier-sweetheart proved what Chief of Police Belvidere Naylor, of Pleasantville, described as a "clear cut alibi."

Women's Club Luncheon To Be Scene of Appearance of Granville Man.

Another outstanding Democrat, Charles West, of Granville, who was beaten by Vic Donahay for the U. S. senate, will appear in Circleville Saturday, Oct. 27, Mrs. J. E. Cromley, chairman of the Pickaway-co Democratic women's club, announced Tuesday.

Mr. West, recognized as one of the finest speakers in Ohio and one of the most ardent supporters of the New Deal, will address what is expected to be a capacity crowd at the American Hotel coffee shop. The women's organization is making plans for a luncheon. The exact hour of the meeting has not been announced.

Mr. West's appearance is almost certain to wind up the influx of state speakers to this city.

JORDAN AWAITING PETITIONS FROM ALL 17 COUNTIES

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—Another delay in the flood control program for the Scioto and Sandusky rivers was disclosed today when Alan Jordan, secretary of the association backing the program, said that the request for legal authority for the association would be made later in the month.

Delay in the receipt of petitions from the 17 counties affected by the program, which would construct 39 reservoirs on the two rivers for water conservation purposes, was ascribed by Jordan as the cause of the postponement of the date for placing the plan before common pleas judges of the counties for approval.

Although Jordan now has 2,000 signatures from 12 of the counties, and needs only 500 from the entire area, he said he would not ask for legal authority until petitions were received from all the counties, setting Oct. 21 as a tentative deadline for filing the petitions.

Jordan had originally planned to have the proposal before a meeting of the judges from various counties on Oct. 15. If the plan is approved by the judges, then the association is given legal power to carry out the plans.

Refused Money for Show, Boy Ignites Grandfather's Home

ZANESVILLE, Oct. 16.—When his grandfather refused to give him money to go to a picture show, Otto Osborne, 15, set fire to the house where they lived.

The blaze was hardly extinguished when the boy allegedly started another blaze in the rear of the home. After the second attempt, the grandfather had the boy taken to the detention home here.

If Otto refuses to promise to behave, he will serve a term in the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster, authorities said.

HILL TO HEAD KIWANIS CLUB IN NEXT YEAR

Clarence Helvering Chosen Vice President; McDowell Talks For Schools.

C. E. Hill, Williamsport funeral director, was elected president of the Kiwanis club Monday evening to succeed Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff. He will serve one year.

The club, meeting at Hanley's tearoom, named Clarence Helvering, E. Main-st., as vice president; Sheriff Radcliff as sergeant-at-arms, and E. A. Brown, John H. Dunlap, Sr., Glen Gebb, Sterling Lamb, Fred Tipton and George McDowell as advisors.

Installation of officers will be held at a later date.

MCDOWELL SPEAKS

Club members heard a splendid talk by Mr. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, who briefly outlined the school situation. He warned that unless the legislature does something when it convenes in November 50 per cent of Ohio's schools will close their doors January 1.

"Schools are now operating under the 15 mill tax limitation," Mr. McDowell said, "but after the first of the year the 10 mill limitation goes into effect and one-third of the operating money for schools will not be available. It has been ruled that bonded indebtedness and interest must be met first out of the 10 mill allowance and that leaves many of our schools in tight situations."

WARNS OF AMENDMENT

Mr. McDowell warned of the "vicissitudes" of the constitutional amendment being voted this fall in which it is asked that the gasoline tax be reduced to three cents from four per gallon and that the three cents be "frozen" for highway purposes alone. "Under the present set-up," he explained, "the tax is four cents but the schools are receiving in a per capita proportion one cent on each gallon called the 'liquid fuel tax.' If this is taken away I can't see how the schools can exist." He urged that the constitutional amendment which is sponsored by the "Highway Users' association" of which Lee Palmer is the head, be defeated. "The farm bureau and granges are opposing the measure," Mr. McDowell stated.

The club approved an appropriation of $7.50 to purchase items needed for the continuation of the FERA school in Memorial Hall which is attended by 45 pupils from this city.

SLOT MACHINES ATTACK OBJECT

WASHINGTON C. H., Oct. 16.—Sheriff W. H. Icenhower, of Fayette-co, has started an intensive campaign to oust slot machines from the county. He obtained four of the devices in raids last Saturday.

Two of the machines were penny machines and the others were operated with nickels, all being "jack pot" machines.

"We've started in to break up the use of slot machines in Fayette-co and we're going to do it," Icenhower has announced. "If anyone knows of a slot machine in operation I would appreciate a telephone call."

ACCIDENT VICTIM'S RITES WEDNESDAY

Funeral services will be conducted at the Hill funeral home, Williamsport, Wednesday morning, by Rev. W. B. Rose, for Earl Smiley, 47, who died after being struck by a train in Columbus. The accident happened when Smiley is reported to have fallen from a freight car. An arm was severed and he died from shock and loss of blood.

Mr. Smiley was a native of Jackson-twp and a former resident of Williamsport.

He is survived by two brothers, Charles of Williamsport and John of Dayton, and two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Anderson of Jackson-twp and Mrs. Mary Hawkins of Cleveland.

Interment will be in Spring-lawn cemetery.

Buckeyes Work For Red Raiders

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—With prospects of having his squad at full strength for the Colgate University game Saturday, Coach Francis Schmidt today planned a heavy drill for his Buckeyes on Red Raider plays in what will be an attempt to give Colgate its second beating in two seasons.

With the Raiders coming to Ohio State totaling 453 points of their own making against 12 for their opponents in two years of play, Coach Schmidt yesterday devoted his practice session to a demonstration of errors made in the Illinois game.

After administering corrective exercises he put the varsity through a scrimmage session with the frosh to terminate a workout much less arduous than usually prescribed by the former Texas Christian mentor.

Jim Pipoly, an end, who has been out of the game for three weeks with a leg injury, will be able to play Saturday, Trainer Tucker P. Smith announced, and the only other injuries to date are Dick Beltz, halfback, who suffered a slight knee wound early yesterday and Inwood Smith, a guard, who is out with a cold. Smith said that both probably would be able to play by the end of the week.

Among the "corrective exercises" which Schmidt administered were shifts in the line, with Ernie Roush playing guard, and Gomer Jones alternating at center with George Kabealo. Demon Wetzell alternated with John Kabealo at full back.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—Although Elder Armbrust, 134-pound back from Ohio University, scored a touchdown against Georgetown Saturday, his lead for individual scoring honors in the state today was being closely challenged by John Turley, of Ohio Wesleyan, and John Zontini, of Marshall.

Armbrust, by virtue of his touchdown against Georgetown, now holds the state honors with 39 points. Turley is second with 37 and Zontini third with 36.

All three of the players are in the Buckeye Conference.

Dick Heckin, who counted his third touchdown of the year for Ohio State at Illinois Saturday, holds the honors in the Big Ten with 18 points.

BLASTING ELEPHANT

BOSTON.—A powerful blast echoed throughout the corridors and recesses of Commonwealth pier, shortly after the S. S. Steel Traveler tied up after a 64 day trip from Siam. The blast was from a three year old Siamese elephant, that had been blasting its way around the world. The only way the animal can be silenced is to feed it a large amount of banana stalks.

One thing you can say for this country is that everybody has a chance to become poor and honest.

OHIO U., MIAMI TO TOP OHIO PROGRAM

Winner Will Tie Wesleyan For Leadership as Bishops Stop Marshall By Surprising Score; Georgetown, Hanover Lose To Contending Teams.

By GILSON WRIGHT

DELAWARE, Oct. 16.—The second game of the Buckeye conference championship race will be staged between Ohio university and Miami Saturday at Oxford, and unless all signs fail, it will be a real battle.

Each team has lost only one game, and that outside of Ohio. Both have shown more power than the "experts" anticipated when the season began. Last Saturday, tuning up for this week-end's game, each eleven ran roughshod over its opponent, Ohio swamping Georgetown, 36 to 6, and Miami defeating Hanover, 39 to 6.

TO TIE WESLEYAN

Saturday's victor will move into a tie for the leadership with Ohio Wesleyan, now rated as the dark horse of the Buckeye because of its 43 to 7 landslide over Marshall last Saturday at Huntington in the first intra-conference game of the season.

No other conference games will be staged this week, all the other teams meeting non-conference opponents. Ohio Wesleyan, upon whom the Buckeye now is focussing its attention, will go out of the state to play Syracuse at Syracuse, while Cincinnati, after losing to Vanderbilt, 32 to 0, will meet Ashland in a night game Saturday at Cincinnati. On Friday afternoon Marshall will meet Morris-Harvey at Huntington.

While dopesters figured Ohio Wesleyan would win over Marshall, none predicted such an overwhelming victory. Led by John Turley, triple-threat star,

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

MINNESOTA VS PITT

The feature football game of this week-end is that between the University of Minnesota, believed the strongest team in the Big Ten, and the University of Pittsburgh, conqueror of the once-mighty Southern California aggregation. The game is played at Pittsburgh which gives Jock Sutherland's boys an advantage.

Minnesota's team is built around Pug Lund and Larson, all-American halfback and end, while Weinstock and Weisenbaugh head Pittsburgh's list of notables.

"IRISH HAVE RETURNED"

This is from Bob Pickens, who spent the week-end at South Bend, Ind., home of the rambling Irish of Notre Dame: "The Irish have returned. They'll lose no more games to a bunch of 'high school' teams. BLUE GILLS FREED IN CANAL'S WATERS

Ten thousand blue gills from the hatchery at Buckeye Lake were placed in the waters of the canal, south of this city, Monday afternoon by the Pickaway-co Farmer's and Sportsman's Protective association, and Clarence Francis, game protector.

More fish will be released later in other waters of the county, it was announced.

SALT CREEK SCHOOL SPONSORING FAIR

Plans are being completed for an interesting display of farm products, antiques, fruits, fancy work and many other items at the Saltcreek-twp School Fair to be held at the school house Friday, October 19, afternoon and evening. H. A. Strous of the school, announces.

This is the first fair that has been held at the school for several years and the response has been beyond expectations according to Mr. Strous.

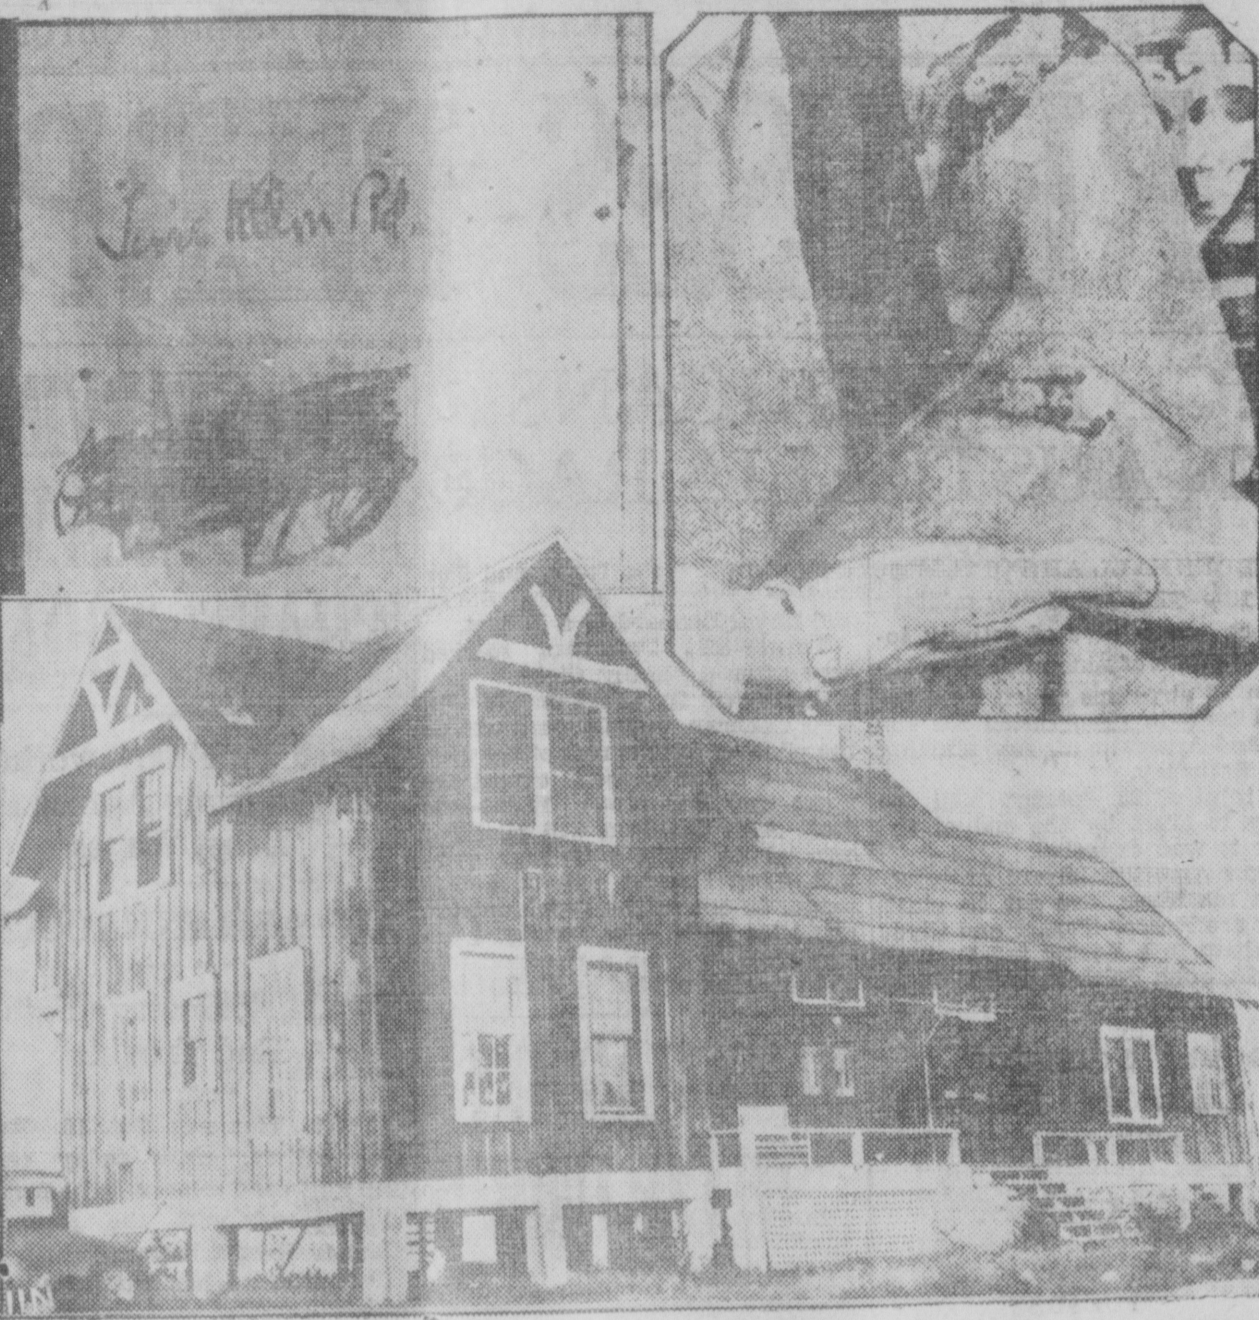

Prizes will be awarded in all classifications with the point system being used in making the awards and many prizes are being offered by local merchants for the affair.

The Hallsville band will be there in the evening to furnish music and lunch will be served by the high school students during the afternoon and evening.

Xylophone Old Instrument

Xylophones are one of the earliest of the percussion musical instruments known. The name is taken from a Greek word meaning sounding wood, and Josephus in his "Antiquities," about A. D. 70, speaks of a festival of xylophony. They are also known to have existed in Africa at an exceedingly early date.

Probe Clubhouse Clews in Stoll Abduction

While members of her family retained hope that Mrs. Berry V. Stoll, abducted wife of a Louisville, Ky., oil magnate, still was alive, police and U. Dr. Bryan also had been appointed by President William Howard Taft as general superintendent of education in the Philippine Islands, and was principal of the Insular normal school there.

The educator was born at Van Wert, O., in 1865, the son of Daniel and Mary Beeler Bryan. He graduated from the Indiana State Normal School in 1889 and from Indiana University four years later. He took his graduate work at Harvard and Clark Universities and had received numerous honorary degrees.

During his rise to fame as one of the country's outstanding educational experts, Dr. Bryan served as principal at the Kokomo High School at Kokomo, Ind., later teaching in an Indianapolis high school, from where he went to a professorship at Butler university.

tin L. Davey, candidate for governor, comes next Tuesday to speak to a large crowd.

TO SELL TICKETS

Tickets are now being printed for the luncheon sponsored by the women and they will be placed on sale within a few days.

Mr. West, although defeated for the nomination, is actively supporting every candidate on the Democratic ticket. It is possible other candidates will appear at the luncheon but Mr. West will be the only speaker on the program.

Congressman Mel G. Underwood and former Lieutenant Governor William G. Pickrel will feature a Democratic caravan planned to visit Ross-co towns Wednesday afternoon and all day Thursday.

Towns to be visited include Massillon, Richmond Dale, Vigo, Londonderry, Bourneville, Frankfort, Clarksburg, Yellowbud, Kingston and Adelphi, a meeting at the town hall in the latter place closing the tour.

Mussolini and Poet "Make Up"

The poet and Mussolini.

Italy's two most famous persons have decided to make up. As a result, Premier Benito Mussolini, with good humored willingness, went to see Gabriele D'Annunzio at the latter's fantastic estate, Vittoriale, on the shores of Lake Garda. The aged, one-eyed poet, hero of the Fiume liberation expedition, since 1924 has refused to stir from his monastic seclusion, even to pay his respects to Il Duce. So the black shirt dictator pocketed his pride and went visiting.

final "conference" with the press, Wednesday, Warden P. E. Thomas said today. The killer has been raving and ranting against society because its laws decree he must die in the electric chair for the shooting of Sheriff Jess Sarber of Lima just a year ago.

A grim dress rehearsal for the final "show" for Pierpont was conducted Monday evening when Edward Miller, 26, former Akron cab driver, was executed for shooting Albert Bush, Canton city detective April 17.

Miller, on his way to the death house, passed Pierpont's cell but the latter said nothing.

When he dies, Pierpont will be the first Dillinger gangster to meet death in the electric chair. Other members of the gang were either shot and killed or jailed. Only two of them are still at large.

SALT CREEK-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

CHAPEL

Rev. Forrester, Presbyterian minister at Whisler and Kingston, was in charge of chapel, Wednesday, Oct. 10, from 1 to 1:45.

Last week the chapel program was sponsored by the senior class which presented the following program:

Scripture reading, George Maxson; prayer, Marie Fetherolf; music selection, George Hiatt, Eddie Pritchard, Malcolm Wolfe; play, Two Hirschhiders; characterization of teachers, Homer Hill.

Rev. Metzler, United Brethren minister on the Pickaway charge, will be present two weeks from Wednesday. Visitors are cordially welcomed to all chapel periods.

CLASS MINUTES

The junior and senior classes held their second meeting Oct. 8 for the purpose of deciding on class dues.

The junior's concessions at the school fair will be a milk booth and a candy and pop stand. The seniors have decided to sell ice cream.

The freshmen and sophomore classes held their regular meeting, paid class dues and discussed their part in the school fair.

Burl Seymour who transferred from Centralia, entered the freshman class Monday.

School Fair—October 19.

GRADE ACTIVITIES

The third and fourth grades are decorating their room for Halloween. These grades are also planning an exhibit for the school fair.

Estell Hutchison, third grade, who has been enrolled at Saltcreek for the past two weeks, a former student of Washington-twp, will now be enrolled in Pickaway-twp school.

The fifth grade have begun their decorative wall hangings showing types of boats and ships. The sixth grade girls are working on a blackboard border.

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 10, the soft ball team of the seventh and eighth grades played Adelphi. Saltcreek boys won with a score of 10-0.

Grand Prizes—School Fair!

The boys and girls of our school are very much elated over the third place which was awarded our exhibit at the Pumpkin Show. The work exhibited by our school was produced in less than four weeks. It was made possible by the co-operation of every department of our school from the first grade through the high school.

We hope to profit by our first experience and offer greater competition for high honors next year.

HIGH SCHOOL HAPPENINGS

Nineteen students rode to Columbus on Julian's bus Saturday to attend High School Day at Ohio State University. The campus, the crowded stadium, the band, the strutting drum major and the cheer leaders are impressions of their visit just as vivid as State's victory.

The 'bal' teams met Washington at Washington, to be defeated by these scores: Boys, 4-8; girls, 8-22.

Death of a King

WITH the clearing away of the smoke of his assassin's gun, the reasons why King Alexander of Yugoslavia was murdered in Marseille become increasingly apparent. It was primarily, an incident in a purely domestic revolt and though it occurred on foreign soil the territory was that of a country which Yugoslavia regarded—and regards—as an ally and which, too, looked upon Yugoslavia as a friend.

King Alexander was the only king in Europe who was at the same time a dictator. With a band of military advisors he dominated his country to the smoldering resentment of many of his subjects, particularly the Croats. A hard man with the rugged strength of the traditional soldier, he had too the soldier's weaknesses. As a soldier he naturally fell prey to the military clique in Belgrade, composed almost entirely of Serbs. Thus he came under the influence of those who wished to Serbize all Yugoslavia and that, of course, is what earned him the bitter resentment of the Croats. It led to the death which he must have realized was ever at his elbow.

Thus the causes; what are, or will be, the results? So striking is the superficial similarity between the murder of Alexander and the murder of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand on June 28, 1914—in each case a young Yugoslav political fanatic jumped on the running board of the official automobile in the midst of a carefully protected reception—that the question naturally arises, is this incident to be followed by similar chaos?

All the circumstances, as above outlined, strongly argue "no," for their backgrounds are sharply in contrast. And while no immediate international tensions are therefore to be feared, the internal situation in Yugoslavia, at once become highly dangerous. If any remote complications follow, they are to be expected only after a grave overturn of the present Balkan settlement.

Immediately, however, it is not hard to see that the feeling of the Serbs against the Croats will mount and the separatist tendencies of the several groups that compose Yugoslavia will become more intense. The king had managed to override local resentment sufficiently to hold the conflicting racial and religious elements together.

The person who gives but little advice and applauds frequently is usually popular.

Conservation Camps

NO panacea for all economic ills but an important and a picturesque step in the recovery program, the experiment of the Civilian Conservation Corps will be continued indefinitely after 18 months of trial.

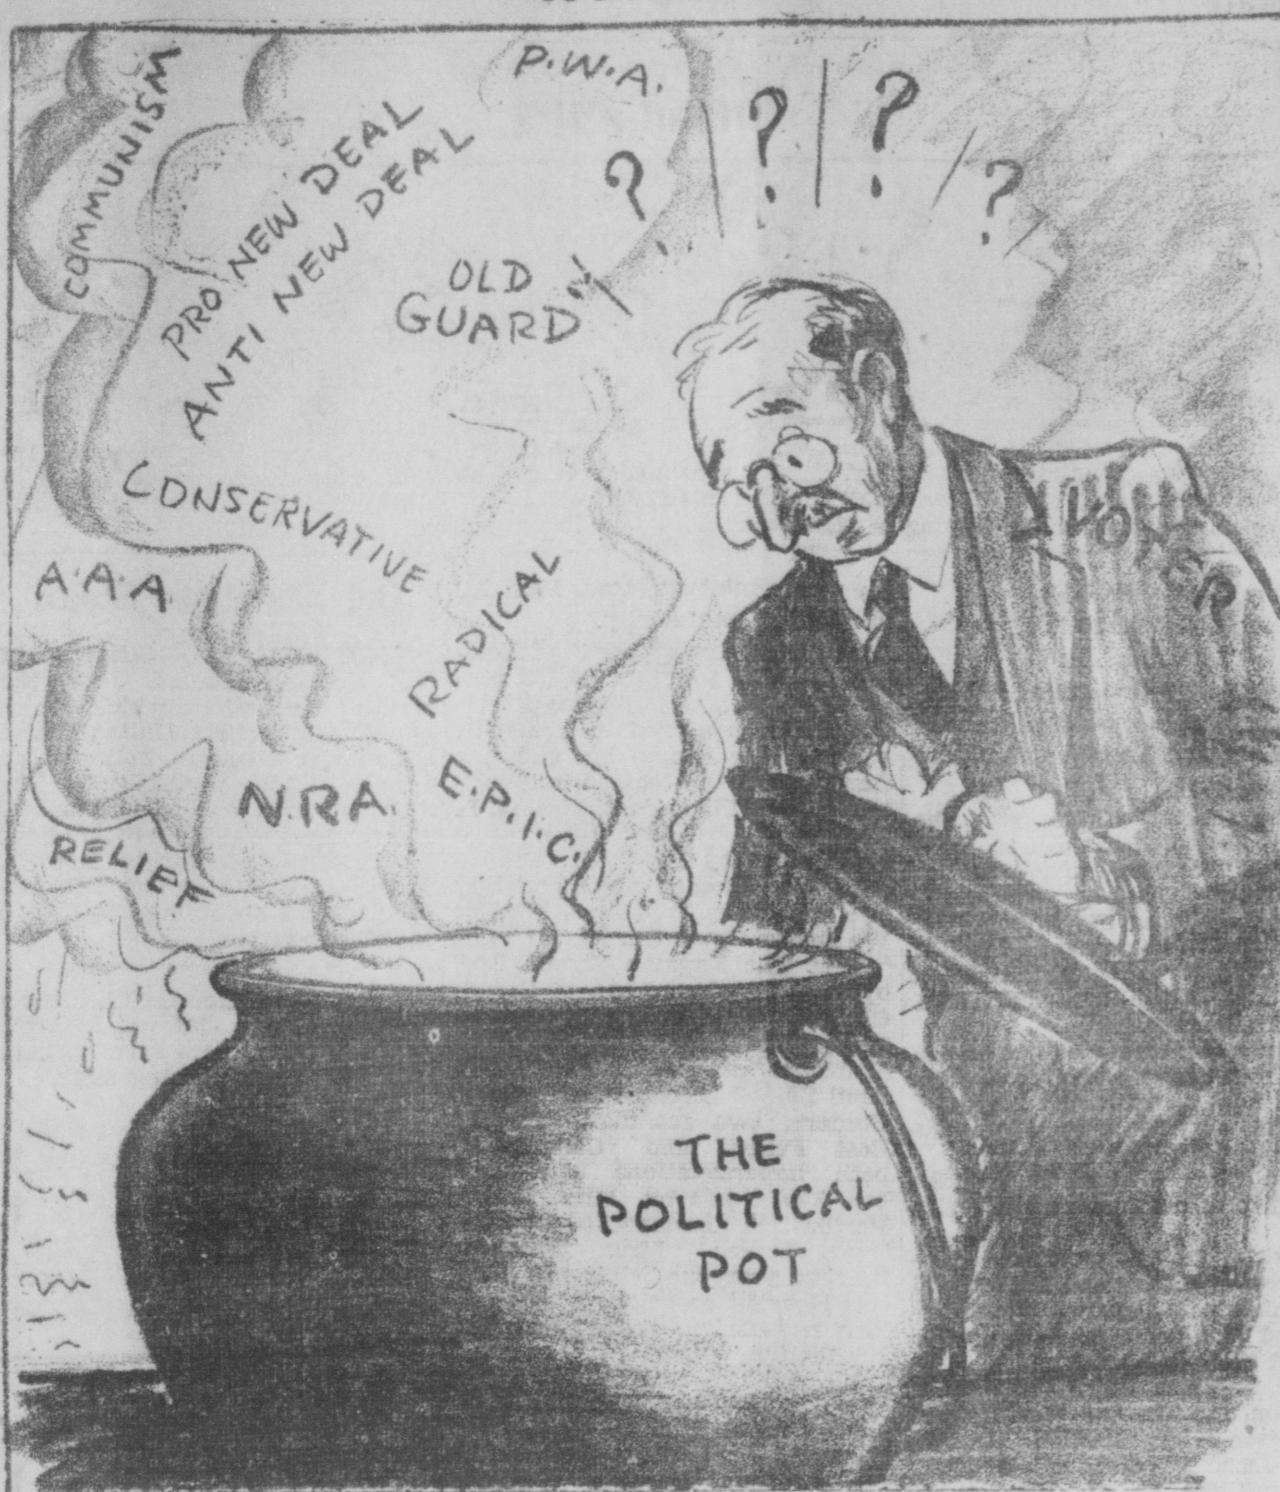

This was almost the first of the economic-social plans under the New Deal; President Roosevelt prepared for it in his speech of acceptance and during the campaign; he addressed congress on the subject March 21, 1933. Since that time the corps has cost $433,000,000, has given employment to 850,000 men who might otherwise have been despondently roaming the streets and the countryside, and has been the real aid in drought relief and in preserving and perpetuating the national forests and the national parks.

The country will undoubtedly approve the President's endorsement of the CCC idea and agree with him that it should be continued. It provides a practical and beneficial form of relief, one of the few methods which have answered both tests. The face of the countryside reveals the useful work these men and youths have done, and considering their number and their state of mind on entering the corps, their deportment record has been admirable.

For this the United States army shares with Director Fechner much of the credit, since the corps has been made to provide valuable and necessary peacetime functions for officers of the reserve. Enlisted men still naturally grumble over the disparity in pay between them and the "scrub-clearers." But a berth in the regular army has numerous advantages over those enjoyed by these orphans of the economic storm.

It isn't poverty that develops strong character; it is the determination to get out of it.

"DEATH SONG"

by JOAN CLAYTON AND MALCOLM LOGAN

CHAPTER XIX

The sheriff almost snatched the photograph from Mark's hands. As he bent his head over it, there was a queer conflict of emotions apparent in his face. His first reaction was one of triumph. As he looked more closely, his mouth drooped and he frowned with disappointment. Then he nodded to himself and looked more cheerful.

"Who took it?" he asked.
"I did," Loren said. "I did it with my little camera."
"And you saw this gardener and didn't tell anybody about it?"
"I didn't know the gardener was in the picture until Mark pointed it out to me a minute ago."

"I don't see how you overlooked him. He's right there in front of your eyes."
"The camera finder is about half an inch by three-quarters," Loren pointed out. "It's no wonder I didn't see him when I looked in it."
"Didn't you look at the cottage after you took the picture?"
"No. I snapped the picture and then turned around and walked into the woods by the lake."

"What were you doing there?" Finn asked.
"He was waiting there for me," Sue said.

Finn grinned at her. "I admire his taste," he said. He looked at the photograph again.

"If we get this enlarged, we might have something," he said. "Where's the film?"

Mark handed it to him. "I'd like to keep these, if you don't mind, Mr. Ruxton," the sheriff said.

"You're welcome to them," Loren replied. "I hope they help you, but I don't think an enlargement will."

Finn grinned as he put them in his pocket. "I don't know," he said. "They may help a lot."

He left, and presently James Ruxton and his nephew went too. It was about to follow when Dr. Calvert arrived. He nodded curtly to all of us and his eyes brightened as he looked at Sue. She smiled at him and for a moment a faint reflection of that smile lit his severe face.

"What do you think of the boy detective now?" Mark crowed.
"Why, I'm practically Finn's right-hand man."

"You're clever, Mark," the doctor replied. "but you don't need me to tell you."

"Have you heard about the photograph Loren took, doctor?" Sue asked eagerly.

At the mention of Loren's name the doctor's jaw tightened.

"Yes," he said. "I've just been conferring with the sheriff."

"You have?" Mark said. "Then maybe you can tell me why he's looking so pleased with himself. I suppose he's found a gardener who hasn't an alibi, hasn't he?"

The doctor looked startled. "How did you know that, Mark?" he asked.

"Oh, Bob always brings me all the gossip," Mark said. "There's a rumor to that effect going around, and it was quite easy to see that the sheriff thinks everything's going nicely."

"Well, that's it," Calvert answered. "He's got one of the gardeners, a poor devil named Joe Barker, who can't prove where he was during rest period."

"I don't know," Dr. Calvert said. "I'm not sure it wasn't one of the gardeners, and as two are accounted for, that leaves only Joe. But I'm not going to see him beaten into confessing."

"The sheriff isn't even considering the possibility that the murderer might have disguised himself as a gardener, I suppose," Mark said.

He looked almost handsome as he said that, standing defiantly with his head thrown back and his muscles flexed as though he were bracing himself for an attack. I looked at Sue. There was admiration in her eyes as she watched him. She asked, "But if it wasn't a gardener, who was it?"

"I don't know," Dr. Calvert said. "I'm not sure it wasn't one of the gardeners, and as two are accounted for, that leaves only Joe. But I'm not going to see him beaten into confessing."

"The sheriff isn't even considering the possibility that the murderer might have disguised himself as a gardener, I suppose," Mark said.

"Do you seriously think that's possible, Mr. Hilmyer?" Sue asked.

Mark drew a design on his sheet with his finger.

"The sheriff will be glad to hear that," Calvert said gloomily.

"Where was Barker?" I asked.

"He says he was at Walnut Cottage, the second one from Lakeside. No one saw him, of course. How could anyone be expected to see him during rest period, when everybody's in bed?"

"Is Barker under arrest?" Mark asked quietly.

"No," said the doctor. He looked at us belligerently. "He won't be either, if I can help it, until Finn gets more proof than he has now."

"If Finn could get him in town and sweat him, he might get a confession," Mark said.

"Yes," Calvert answered angrily. "That's just what he's counting on!"

"There's nothing possible in this case. Anything," he turned to Calvert.

"Where are the overalls now?"

"They're being examined in the laboratory."

"Could you get a look at them?"

"I think so."

"Employees' clothes are washed at the sanatorium laundry, aren't they?" Mark asked.

"Yes, I think so."

"Why don't you check up on the laundry mark and find out if the overalls belong to Barker?"

And tell the sheriff when you have an opportunity, that I can vouch for the innocence of the other two gardeners. I'd like to see him again."

"I certainly shall," the doctor answered. "I'd better go back now."

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING INFORMATION
All ads are restricted to their proper classification and to the regular Circleville Herald style of type. The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy.

Advertising orders for irregular insertions take the one-time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of three lines. Count five average words to the line on paid advertisements.

Charged ads will be received by telephone and if paid at Circleville Herald office within six days from the first day of insertion cash rate will be allowed.

Ads ordered for three or seven times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned. All ads ordered seven times will be published in the Union-Herald (Weekly) and will be counted as one insertion, as will three-time ads ordered printed in Tuesday's or Wednesday's issues of the Daily.

Ads received up to 10:30 A. M. will be inserted the same day. A charge of 50 cents is made for publishing Cards of Thanks. Special rates for yearly advertisements upon request.

Careful attention given to mail orders. Rates per line for consecutive insertions. One time 9c per line. Three times for the price of two. Seven times for the price of three. Prices on Display Classified furnished on request.

The publishers will be responsible only for one incorrect insertion of any advertisement.

Alien, at Bay, Screams "No!" in Lindbergh Case

Hauptmann Like Tiger As New Jersey Officer Asks of Child's Death.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, whose

answer is a hysterical "No!" to the charge that he killed the Lindbergh baby, may know late today whether or not he is to be extradited to New Jersey to stand trial for the murder of the child.

In the Bronx supreme court, where the habeas corpus hearing is in progress, the state of New Jersey, which is striving to extradite the former German machine-gunner to try him for murder, has 10 more witnesses to call to the stand. Whether all of them will be summoned depends upon the circumstances, according to Attorney General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey.

The most damaging witness against Hauptmann so far produced by the prosecution is Albert Osborn, noted handwriting expert. He testified that the penmanship on the Lindbergh ransom note was unquestionably the same as that on the application blanks Hauptmann filled out when he applied for his automobile licenses.

Hauptmann was the star witness at the hearing. His alibi in effect was this:

"I was at home on the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped."

The taciturn 35-year-old carpenter said that on the night of March 1, 1932, when the Lindbergh baby was abducted from his home at Hopewell, N. J., he was in New York City. He could not remember what he did that day but he recalled that on this particular night he drove in his car from his home in the Bronx to the bakery of Christian Frederickson, in the Bronx, where his wife was employed, and took her home. He and his wife remained at home that night, Hauptmann insisted.

Asked what he had done that day his memory was vague. He could not recall whether he had worked as a carpenter at the Majestic apartment hotel on the west side of New York City or whether he had spent the day around a Sixth avenue employment agency looking for work.

LOSES HIS POISE

Hauptmann, a shrewd, cagy and cautious witness, lost his poise completely when, at the close of his testimony, Attorney General Wilentz accused him by interrogation of being the slayer of the Lindbergh baby.

Defense Attorney James M. Fawcett had asked Hauptmann if he knew anything about the kidnapping and the witness replied that he did not. He also asserted he was not in New Jersey when the abduction took place.

Suddenly Attorney General Wilentz leaped to his feet and demanded: "Didn't you build a ladder? Didn't you go up that ladder? Didn't you murder the Lindbergh baby?"

Hauptmann, as near to the breaking point as at any time since his arrest, seemed about to leap from the witness chair as he roared a hysterical "No!" to all three questions.

The face of the prisoner was a study. It had been pale throughout the three hours and twenty minutes he had been on the stand, but now, at the conclusion of his testimony, these final parting shots caused his face to grow even a shade paler.

He was like a tiger at bay. His hands clenched the sides of the witness chair. His small, narrow eyes gleamed as he threw glances of hate at his inquisitor.

Just before Wilentz threw these farewell blasts at Hauptmann, defense Attorney Fawcett had asked the witness in a kindly tone if he had been in or about Hopewell on March 1, 1932. In a low, monotonous tone, which he had employed almost throughout his testimony, Hauptmann replied: "No."

The poker-faced ex-German convict showed his venom, however, when Wilentz hurled the murder charge at him. His demeanor changed in a flash. His cry of "no" to the murder charge rang throughout the silent courtroom. The Hauptmann denial, and the manner in which he made it, was the dramatic highlight of the session.

While the prisoner was on the stand, Wilentz quoted from his testimony at the district attorney's office in the Bronx, soon after his arrest, to show discrepancies between his stories then and at the recent hearing. He pinned three definite lies on Hauptmann.

Drought Alleviation

LARAMIE, Wyoming.—Future droughts in Wyoming may be largely alleviated through use of underground water, according to Dr. S. H. Knight, state geologist and professor of geology at the state university here. A recent survey, he said, revealed that one-third of the area of the state was underlaid with underground water at a depth that would in the long run pay for its recovery.

Pigeon Leaves Court

SEATTLE, Wash.—Throckmorton has left. Tired of the tedious court routine, the fledgling pigeon which flew into Superior Judge Chester A. Batchelor's courtroom here several weeks ago, has recovered from his exhaustion and left the legal confines to join his cronies on the old porch on top of the County-City building.

Southern Democratic Anglo-Saxon Lawyer Sought in Negro Case

WASHINGTON — Northern defenders of the Negro are quietly looking around for a good liberal Southern Democrat with an Anglo-Saxon name to take over the defense of the seven negroes in the Scottsboro case.

Their defenders are tired of supporting lawyers with Communist affiliations or foreign names, have made up their minds to get someone with the standing of John W. Davis.

What has brought this decision is the arrest of the two defense lawyers for alleged attempted bribery of Georgia judges, a white woman who accuses the seven Negroes.

The two lawyers are supposed to be affiliated with the Communist party, which unquestionably has used the Scottsboro case for its own ends.

It is not supposed to be known, but some members of the Supreme Court would be glad to see a final test of whether Negroes shall be permitted to serve on juries; therefore would have welcomed a review of the Scottsboro case with the issue unclouded by extraneous matter.

Habit

Jim Reed, once a doughty liberal, now a millionaire, dislikes the NRA even more than the New Deal.

Jim's recent bride, the former Mrs. Nellie Donnelly, owns and operates the Nell Donnelly dress manufacturing company. Her dresses come under the jurisdiction of two codes: cheaper grades under a sub-code of the cotton garment industry, more expensive gowns under a code of their own.

The Nell Donnelly and a number of other concerns, make dresses that overlap both codes. So after much debate the NRA has promulgated a new order, designed to settle these jurisdictional questions.

Jim, accompanied by his handsomely attired wife, appeared at the NRA hearing. He acted as her counsel on the proposed ruling. And in the words of an old master, he made his presence felt.

On one occasion, chewing an unlighted cigar, he stalked into a busy office.

"You'll have to clear out of here," he barked at the startled clerks and stenographers. "There is too much noise and confusion. I want to do some work."

Secretarial Union

A lot of people have wondered at the spectacle of genial George Akerson, Hoover's ex-secretary, receiving an appointment under the New Deal. And if they knew the whole story they would wonder more.

The not generally known fact is that Akerson came within a hair's breadth of getting a job with the Republican National Committee, was rescued by the New Deal when the G. O. P. walked out on him.

Four years ago Akerson left Hoover and the White House for a fat salary with Paramount Pictures. But his contract expired just as Roosevelt came into office.

Another Hoover secretary, Walter Newton, was taken care of by Roosevelt as a favor to the departing President. But Akerson was out of luck.

However, there is a camaraderie among White House secretaries, and Steve Early, Roosevelt assistant looked around for a comfortable place for George. Everything was taken. There were too many Democrats and too few jobs.

So Early got some of Akerson's old new cronies to take the matter up with Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican National Committee.

At first Fletcher was favorable. But two things happened. First, he discovered that a Democratic Administration, through Steve Early, was trying to dictate who should work for the G. O. P. Second, he decided the hiring of an ex-Hoover secretary would brand the Committee with definite Hoover label, arouse the wrath of anti-Hoover Republicans.

So Akerson remained out in the cold. In the end, Early had to brave Democratic wrath by offering his secretarial friend a job on the Veterans' Appeal Board.

Then the appointee decided the

A 1934 Kentucky Plate Found Mutilated in Fort Wayne; Investigate

NO WORD RECEIVED

Now Believe Kidnapers Not "Professionals"

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 16.—A possible clue in the kidnaping of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll at Louisville, Ky., was believed by police to have been uncovered here today in a mutilated 1934 Kentucky automobile license plate.

The find was made in an alley behind a vacant building in the downtown business district by Edward Bloom, 22, a telephone company messenger.

The plate had been cut in the middle. The left half bore the abbreviation "KY" at the top, and below it the number 7.

The other section had the letters "TT" at the top and below this were the numbers 457.

NEAR LOUISVILLE

Police here were working on the theory that the double "TT" represented the ending of the name of a Kentucky county—either Scott or Bullitt.

Either of these counties, it was pointed out, lies near Jefferson-co in which Louisville is located.

As the sixth day passed since the kidnaping of young Mrs. Alice Stoll from her home without word from her abductor, authorities weighed the theory that the ransom note left behind was a deliberate screen planted in an effort to veil the real identity of the kidnaper.

A study of the phraseology of the ransom note suggested to police that the criminal was an educated person who wished to create the impression a professional gang of "snatchers" was behind the kidnaping.

7 CALLED IN OTTO PROBE

Mayor Worley, Karns, Other Leaders To Appear Before Grand Jury.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—Seven city officials, including Mayor Henry W. Worley and Frank C. Karns, president of city council, were to appear today before the Franklin-co grand jury when it begins consideration of charges of falsifying city expense accounts against Walter E. Otto, city auditor.

David C. Rupert, special state examiner whose report of Otto's records opened the case, was also called to testify.

The Otto case was the first on the docket for the grand jury. Otto has refused to resign pending the outcome of the investigation, charging that the alleged falsified expense accounts were "frame ups."

TYPHOON SWEEPS SHORE OF ISLAND

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 16.—Untold misery and suffering was reported on every hand today as one of the worst typhoons in the history of the Philippine islands began to abate.

Hundreds were homeless in Manila as a result of the storm which unroofed business houses and destroyed many homes in the native section of the city, while heavy damage was reported in residential sections.

Streets were blocked with uprooted trees, fallen electric and telephone poles.

Only fragmentary reports, thus far, have been received from the distant provinces of the islands and it was feared damage there will run into millions of dollars.

MOTOR, FAN STOLEN

Police were informed Monday that a motor and fan were stolen from the Smith packing house, Sunday night.

EIGHT AMERICANS IN AUSTRALIA RACE

MILDENHALL AIRPORT, Eng., Oct. 16.—This brand new military airport, was a hive of activity today as pilots of nine nations worked on 15 airplanes which have arrived here in preparation for the England-Australia air race starting next Saturday.

A total of 23 planes will be ready to start by the end of the week it was expected.

Eight American flyers, entering three machines, are set to start. They are Foster Turner and Clyde Pangborn in a Boeing 247-D; Jack Wright, John Polando, and William Brown, in a Babe Ruth, and Jacqueline Cochran, Wesley Smith, and Royal Leonard in a Midget.

Turner and Pangborn reached here after a stormy flight. Smith will fly to Allahabad with Miss Cochran, and Leonard will do the piloting for the rest of the way.

Three other women expect to make the hazardous 11,000-mile dash. Amy Molison will pilot her own plane, while a German aviator, Thea Rasch, will be a passenger in one of the Dutch entries.

And Miss E. M. Lay, English aviator flyer, will be a passenger in the machine piloted by H. L. Brook.

950 STARVING MINERS LEAVE 'GRAVE' TODAY

Jeered by Fellow-workers as Company Agrees to Boost Wages

ALL ARE EXHAUSTED

Two Risk Hostage Fate to End Trouble

PECS, Hungary, Oct. 16.—Back from a living grave today came 950 half-dead miners, to be met at the pitheads with the jeers of their waiting fellows:

"Capitalism has won its victory!" taunted the non-striking miners.

"Not enough! not enough!" agreed the straggling men who had spent five days suffocating and starving deep in the dark shafts, barely able to mutter their dissatisfaction at the terms of the relief settlement squeezed from the mine owners.

Bayonets and machine guns of troops kept off anxious relatives and disgruntled comrades as the strikers were quickly shepherded home.

The men were almost too weak to stage any form of demonstration or even to embrace their waiting wives.

Practically all went straight to bed, their straw couches a comfortable contrast to the damp shafts and pillows of coal on which they had rested for five days.

Although dissatisfied with the $18,000 relief fund promised immediately by the Danube Steam Navigation Co., owners of the mine, plus another $18,000 before Christmas, miners were persuaded to give up their mass suicide attempt by two Socialist deputies, Janos Estergalys and Charles Peyer.

RISKED FATE

Risking the fate of five emissaries who ventured into the mine two days ago and were held as hostages, Estergalys and Peyer entered the shaft at midnight and told the weakening strikers the terms offered by the owners.

For four hours they argued with the ring leaders, who still preferred death to facing another winter of acute misery. The miners finally yielded to the plea that it would be in the interests of their families and co-workers to give up.

SCIENTIST WOULD RESTORE LIVES OF GASED CRIMINALS

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 16.—Can science bring a dead man back to life?

The gates of the grave were the object of a new assault today by Dr. Robert E. Corneish, one-eyed young Berkeley scientist, whose experiment in revivifying a "dead" dog attracted world-wide attention last April.

Dr. Corneish has addressed letters to the governors of Nevada, Arizona and Colorado asking permission to try his life-giving serum on the bodies executed by lethal gas in those states.

CREW EXTINGUISHES FIRE ON STEAMSHIP

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—Fire aboard the steamship Point San Pedro was extinguished early today, MacKay radio offices here were advised.

In a message relayed here from Portland, it was said the crew of the Point San Pedro had succeeded in extinguishing the blaze in the cargo hold of the freighter and the ship was "proceeding to Portland" under her own power.

The message added that the vessel was being "steered by hand" as the damage on the steering gear had not been repaired.

Women's Club Luncheon To Be Scene of Appearance of Granville Man.

Another outstanding Democrat, Charles West, of Granville, who was beaten by Vic Donahey for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. senate, will appear in Circleville Saturday, Oct. 27, Mrs. J. B. Cronley, chairman of the Pickaway-co Democratic women's club, announced Tuesday.

Mr. West, recognized as one of the finest speakers in Ohio and one of the most ardent supporters of the New Deal, will address what is expected to be a capacity crowd at the American Hotel Coffee shop. The women's organization is making plans for a luncheon. The exact hour of the meeting has not been announced.

Mr. West's appearance is almost certain to wind up the influx of state speakers to this city.

JORDAN AWAITING PETITIONS FROM ALL 17 COUNTIES

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—Another delay in the flood control program for the Scioto and Sandusky rivers was disclosed today when Alan Jordan, secretary of the association backing the program, said that the request for legal authority for the association would be made later in the month.

Delay in the receipt of petitions from the 17 counties affected by the program, which would construct 39 reservoirs on the two rivers for water conservation purposes, was ascribed by Jordan as the cause of the postponement of the date for placing the plan before common pleas judges of the counties for approval.

Although Jordan now has 2,000 signatures from 12 of the counties, and needs only 500 from the entire area, he said he would not ask for local authority until petitions were received from all the counties, setting Oct. 21 as a tentative deadline for filing the petitions.

Jordan had originally planned to have the proposed before a meeting of the judges from various counties on Oct. 16. If the plan is approved by the judges, then the association is given legal power to carry out the plan.

Soldier Held As Body Of Girl, Buried Alive, Found

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 16.—Pretty Anne Cardile, the 19-year-old unmarried, expectant mother whose battered body was found Sunday night in a shallow grave in the sand near here, was buried alive.

Following an autopsy on the Pleasantville girl's body, Atlantic county authorities declared today that she had died to death from lacerations of the scalp after being interned.

Meanwhile, new mystery was thrown around the brutal "American Tragedy" murder when the man described as her soldier-sweetheart proved what chief of Police Bellevue Naylor, of Pleasantville, described as a "clear cut alibi."

Refused Money for Show, Boy Ignites Grandfather's Home

ZANESVILLE, Oct. 16.—When his grandfather refused to give him money to go to a picture show, Otto Osborne, 15, set fire to the house where they lived.

The blaze was hardly extinguished when the boy allegedly started another blaze in the rear of the home. After the second attempt, the grandfather had the boy taken to the detention home here.

If Otto refuses to promise to behave he will serve a term in the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster, authorities said.

HILL TO HEAD KIWANIS CLUB IN NEXT YEAR

Clarence Helvering Chosen Vice President; McDowell Talks For Schools.

C. E. Hill, Williamsport funeral director, was elected president of the Kiwanis club Monday evening to succeed Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff. He will serve one year.

The club, meeting at Hanley's tavern, named Clarence Helvering, E. Matlack, as vice president; Sheriff Radcliff as sergeant-at-arms, and E. A. Brown, John H. Dunlap, Sr., Glen Gebb, Sterling Lamb, Fred Tipton and George McDowell as directors.

Installation of officers will be held at a later date.

McDOWELL SPEAKS

Club members heard a splendid talk by Mr. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, who briefly outlined the school situation. He warned that unless the legislature does something when it convenes in November 50 per cent of Ohio's schools will close their doors January 1.

"Schools are now operating under the 15 mill tax limitation," Mr. McDowell said, "but after the first of the year the 10 mill limitation goes into effect and one-third of the operating money for schools will not be available. It has been ruled that bonded indebtedness and interest must be met first out of the 10 mill allowance and that leaves nothing for our schools in tight situations."

WARNS OF AMENDMENT

Mr. McDowell warned of the "outrageousness" of the constitutional amendment being voted this fall in which it is asked that the gasoline tax be reduced to three cents from four per gallon and that the three cents be "frozen" for highway purposes alone.

"Under the present set-up," he explained, "the tax is four cents but the schools are receiving in a per capita proportion one cent on each gallon called the 'liquid fuel tax'."

"If this is taken away I can't see how the schools can exist," he urged that the constitutional amendment which is sponsored by the "Highway Users' association" of which Lee Palmer is the head, be defeated. "The farm bureau and granaries are opposing the measure," Mr. McDowell stated.

The club approved an appropriation of $750 to purchase items needed for the construction of the FERA school in Memorial Hall which is attended by 45 pupils from this city.

SLOT MACHINES ATTACK OBJECT

WASHINGTON, C. D., Oct. 16.—Sheriff W. H. Ingham, of Fayetteville, has started an anti-slot machine campaign in his county. He obtained copies of the devices in roads last Sunday.

Two slot machines were seized by Ingham and the officers were carrying them to the county jail.

"We are going to break up the slot machine business in Fayetteville," Ingham was quoted as saying. "I have announced that anyone who has a slot machine in operation I would appreciate a telephone call."

Buckeyes Work For Red Raiders

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—With prospects of having his squad at full strength for the Colgate University game Saturday, Coach Francis Schmidt today planned a heavy drill for his Buckeyes, on Red Raider plays in what will be an attempt to give Colgate its second beating in two seasons.

With the Raiders coming to Ohio State totaling 422 points at Westtown making an end 12 for their opponents in 120 years of play, Coach Schmidt yesterday devoted his practice session to a demonstration of errors made in the Illinois game.

After administering corrective exercises he put the varsity through a scrimmage session with the frosh to terminate a workout much less arduous than usually

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

MINNESOTA VS. PITT

The feature football game of this week-end is that between the University of Minnesota, believed the strongest team in the Big Ten, and the University of Pittsburgh, conqueror of the one-night Southern California aggregation. The game is played at Pittsburgh which gives Jack Sutherland's boys an advantage.

Minnesota's team is built around Pug Lund and Larson, all-American halfback and end, while Weinstock and Weisenbaugh head Pittsburgh's list of notables.

"IRISH HAVE RETURNED"

This is from Bob Pickens, who spent the week-end at South Bend, Ind., home of the rambling Irish of Notre Dame. "The Irish have returned. They'll lose no more games to a bunch of 'high school' teams. On the end runs there were three and four blockers in front of the ball carrier at all times, showing that Rockne's system is once more really being taught the Notre Dame team."

Pickens was high in his praise of Layden, brother of the coach, and Robinson, veteran end, who returned to school this week. Incidentally, Hank Anderson, Rockne's immediate successor, won his first game for North Carolina, Saturday beating Georgia in an upset.

CRISINGER ALL-STAR

Walter C. Crissinger, of the Hilltop Colts, who won the left field position on the A team in Columbus all-star softball league selections, is a son of Walter W. Crissinger, merchant policeman.

DEANS IN COLUMBUS

The Dizzy Deans, Jerome and Paul, are coming to Columbus next Monday night to head an all-star team against a nine of national colored stars—Paired with the Deans will be Crabtree, Hinkle, Gibson, Kline, Chapman, Heath, Cullop, Hal Kinney and Tommy Leonard. Vic Harris and Oscar Charleston, former satellites with the Homestead Greys will perform for the colored aggregation.

BLASTING ELEPHANT

BOSTON.—A powerful blast echoed through the corridors and recesses of Commonwealth pier, shortly after the S. S. Traveler tied up after a 64 day trip from Siam. The blast was from a three year old Siamese elephant, that had been blasting its way around the world. The only way the animal can be silenced is to feed it a large amount of banana stalks.

One thing you can say for this country is that everybody has a chance to become poor and honest.

OHIO U., MIAMI TO TOP OHIO PROGRAM

Winner Will Tie Wesleyan For Leadership as Bishops Stop Marshall By Surprising Score; Georgetown, Hanover Lose To Contending Teams.

By GILSON WRIGHT

DELAWARE, Oct. 16.—The second game of the Buckeye conference championship race will be staged between Ohio Wesleyan and Miami Saturday at Oxford, and unless all signs fail, it will be a real battle.

Each team has lost only one game, and that outside of Ohio. Both have shown more power than the "experts" anticipated when the season began. Last Saturday, turning up for this week-end's game, each eleven can roughshod over its opponent. Ohio swamping Georgetown, 33 to 6, and Miami defeating Hanover, 39 to 6.

TO TIE WESLEYAN

Saturday's victor will move into a tie for the leadership with Ohio Wesleyan, now rated as the dark horse of the Buckeye because of its 43 to 7 landslide over Marshall last Saturday at Huntington in the first intra-conference game of the season.

No other conference games will be staged this week, all the other teams meeting non-conference cleven. Ohio Wesleyan, upon whom the Buckeye now is focusing its attention, will go out of the state to play Syracuse at Syracuse, while Cincinnati, after losing to Vanderbilt, 32 to 0, will meet Assand in a night game Saturday at Cincinnati. On Friday afternoon Marshall will meet Morris-Harvey at Huntington.

While dopesters figured Ohio Wesleyan would win over Marshall, none predicted such an overwhelming victory. Led by John Turley, triple-threat star,

BLUE GILLS FREED IN CANAL'S WATERS

Ten thousand blue gills from the hatchery at Buckeye Lake were placed in the waters of the canal, south of this city, Monday afternoon by the Pickaway-co Farmer and Sportsman's Protective association, and Clarence Francis, game protector.

SALT CREEK SCHOOL SPONSORING FAIR

Plans are being completed for an interesting display of farm products, antiques, fruits, fancy work and many other items at the Salt Creek-Twp School Fair to be held at the school house Friday, October 19, afternoon and evening, H. A. Strous of the school, announces.

This is the first fair that has been held at the school for several years and the response has been beyond expectations according to Mr. Strous.

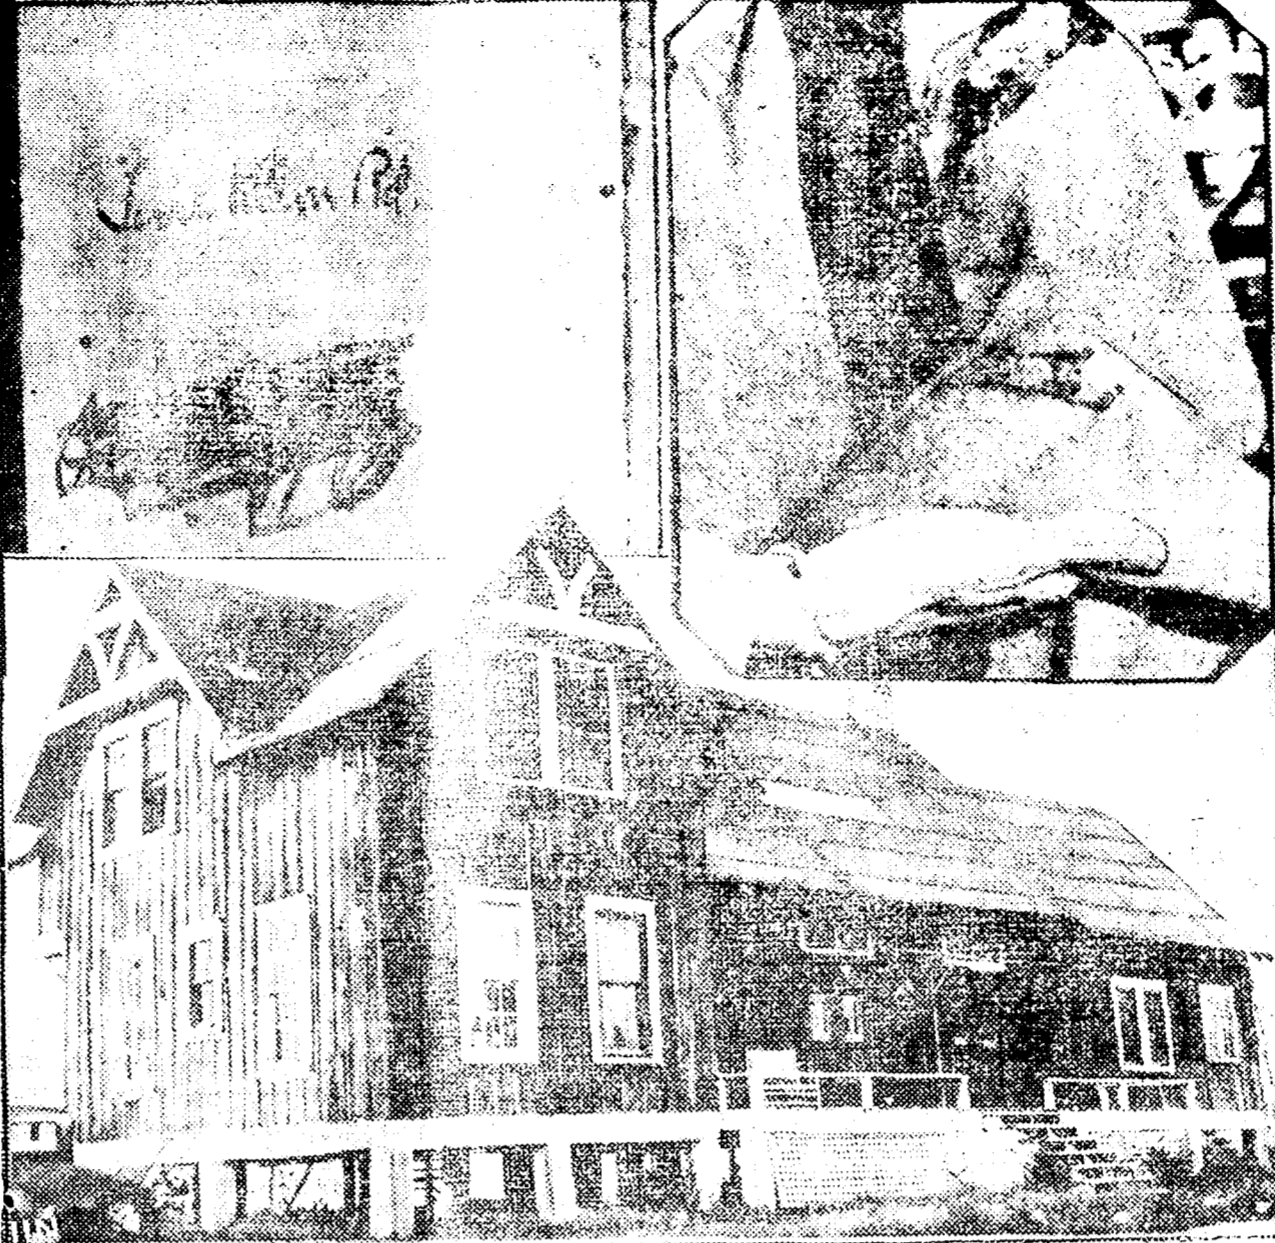

Prizes will be awarded in all classifications with the point system being used in making the awards and many prizes are being offered by local merchants for the affair.

The Hillsville band will be there in the evening to furnish music and lunch will be served by the high school students during the afternoon and evening.

Xylophone Old Instrument

Xylophones are one of the earliest of the percussion musical instruments known. The name is taken from a Greek word meaning sound-wood, and Josephus in his "Antiquities," about A. D. 70, speaks of a festival of xylophony. They are also known to have existed in Africa at an exceedingly early date.

Probe Clubhouse Clews in Stoll Abduction

While members of her family retained hope that Mrs. Berry V. Stoll, abducted wife of a Louisville, Ky., oil magnate, still was alive, police and U. S. department of justice agents sought to locate the trail of the abductors by close scrutiny of clews discovered in the Corsair clubhouse, below, situated near Louisville on the shore of the Ohio river. Left, a blood-stained blanket found in the place; right, closeup of a notation—Lime Kiln road, the avenue leading to the Stoll home—written on the wall over the club telephone. Authorities believe Mrs. Stoll might have been driven to the clubhouse then put aboard a launch and sped away on the river.

with education all his life, serving as president of Colgate university at Hamilton, N. Y., for 12 years, and Franklin university, Franklin, Ind., for three years before accepting the Ohio position.

HEADED ASSOCIATION

This year he was elected to the position of president of the National Association of State Universities, an organization composed of the heads of tax-supported educational institutions. Dr. Bryan also had been appointed by President William Howard Taft as general superintendent of education in the Philippine Islands, and was principal of the Insular normal school there.

The educator was born at Van Wert, O., in 1869, the son of Daniel and Mary Beeler Bryan. He graduated from the Indiana State Normal School in 1889 and from Indiana University four years later. He took his graduate work at Harvard and Clark Universities and had received numerous honorary degrees.

During his rise to fame as one of the country's outstanding educational experts, Dr. Bryan served as principal at the Kokomo High School at Kokomo, Ind., later teaching in an Indianapolis high school, from where he went to a professorship of Public Education at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Bryan was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi, and the author of several books on education.

He married Margaret L. Scott, of Kokomo, in 1889, and leaves his wife and three children, Julian, of Polham Manor, N. Y.; Mrs. J. G. Decher, Houston, Texas; and Mrs. Chester Sater, Summit, N. J.

TO SELL TICKETS

Tickets are now being printed for the luncheon sponsored by the women and they will be placed on sale within a few days.

Mr. West, although defeated for the nomination, is actively supporting every candidate on the Democratic ticket. It is possible other candidates will appear at the luncheon but Mr. West will be the only speaker on the program.

Congressman Moll G. Underwood and former Lieutenant Governor William G. Pickrel will feature the luncheon caravan planned to visit Ross-co towns Wednesday afternoon and all day Thursday. Towns to be visited include Massillon, Richmond Dale, Vigo, Leonderry, Bourneville, Frankfort, Chicksburg, Yellowbud, Kingston and Adelphi, a meeting at the town hall in the latter place closing the tour.

who knew our business," the note read, in part.

NOT "PROFESSIONAL"

The stilted language of this sentence with other utterances in the ransom note convinced many detectives working on the case that no professional had engineered the crime.

The further statement contained in the note that the kidnappers were socialists "trying to get back what is owed us," was termed an obvious "red herring" drawn across the trail.

The note mentioned Nashville, Milwaukee and two other cities (unrevealed) as likely places for the $50,000 ransom sum demanded to be passed. The money placed in Nashville has gone unclaimed and Derry Stoll, husband of the victim, vainly awaited word as to where the kidnaper or kidnappers would like the sum transferred.

The ransom note apparently was originally framed to be used in the kidnapping of C. C. Stoll, head of the Stoll Oil Refining company, and father-in-law of Mrs. Stoll. The name of the elder Stoll was still contained in the note left behind.

Mrs. Stoll was the one kidnapped after the invader had spent one hour and twenty minutes in the Stoll home ostensibly as a telephone repair man.

Federal agents were not yet thoroughly convinced that anyone but Mrs. Stoll was ever considered as a victim.

STILL HOPEFUL

George Stoll, vice-president of the oil company and a brother of the victim's husband, told International News Service that the family was still "hopeful."

"It would not be so bad if we could only get some word to show that Alice is safe," he said. "But she was ill when she was taken away and we do not know whether she is being treated with kindness. Her ordeal will be doubly felt by her because she was so sensitive and artistic nature. However, we are still hopeful."

A report that two suspects had been arrested caused a crowd to collect outside the federal building here.

However, Harold Nathan, federal agent in charge of the investigation, denied the report.

Believing that the missing society woman may be held a "hit-away" in Louisville, a quiet search of residences was begun by authorities.

Only one hour elapsed from the time Mrs. Stoll was slugged over the head and put into an automobile to the time a general police alarm was broadcast. Officials expressed a belief that the kidnaper did not have sufficient time to escape from the area with his victim.

Ancient Bruges of Belgium

Six miles from the North sea lies Bruges, a modern Belgian city still quietly resting in the Middle ages. Little changed since it was the commercial center of the Hanseatic league, the chimneys of its belfry have been celebrated from the Thirteenth century. Its town hall is six hundred years old. Its beautiful Gothic churches were built before Columbus discovered America. In its Hospital St. Jean are Mendicant's most important paintings. Vistas of old quays, and canals with many bridges are fringed with gardens of ancient houses.

final "conference" with the press, Wednesday, Warden P. E. Thomas said today. The killer has been raving and ranting against society because it's laws decree he must die in the electric chair for the shooting of Sheriff Jess Sarber of Lima just a year ago.

A grim dress rehearsal for the final "show" for Pierpont was conducted Monday evening when Edward Miller, 26, former Akron cab driver, was executed for shooting Albert Bush, Canton city detective April 17.

Miller, on his way to the death house, passed Pierpont's cell but the latter said nothing.

When he dies, Pierpont will be the first Dillinger gangster to meet death in the electric chair. Other members of the gang were either shot and killed or jailed. Only two of them are still at large.

SALT CREEK-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

CHAPEL

Rev. Forrester, Presbyterian minister at Whistler and Kingston, was in charge of chapel, Wednesday, Oct. 10, from 1 to 1:45.

Last week the chapel program was sponsored by the senior class which presented the following program:

Scripture reading, George Maxson; prayer, Marie Fetherolf; music selection, George Hilt, Eddie Pritchard, Malcolm Wolfe; play, Two Hitchhikers; characterization of teachers, Homer Hill.

Rev. Metzler, United Brethren minister on the Pickaway charge, will be present two weeks from Wednesday. Visitors are cordially welcomed to all chapel periods.

CLASS MINUTES

The junior and senior classes held their second meeting Oct. 8 for the purpose of deciding on class dues.

The junior's concessions at the school fair will be a candy booth and a candy and pop stand. The seniors have decided to sell ice cream.

The freshmen and sophomore classes held their regular meeting, paid class dues and discussed their part in the school fair.

Burl Seymour who transferred from Centralia, entered the freshman class Monday.

School Fair, October 19.

GRADE ACTIVITIES

The third and fourth grades are decorating their room for Halloween. These grades are also planning an exhibit for the school fair.

Estell Hutchison, third grade, who has been enrolled at Salt Creek for the past two weeks, a former student of Washington-twp, will now be enrolled in Pickaway-twp school.

The fifth grade have begun their decorative wall hangings showing types of boats and ships. The sixth grade girls are working on a blackboard border.

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 10, the soft ball team of the seventh and eighth grades played Adelphi. Salt Creek boys won with a score of 10-0.

Grand Prizes—School Fair!

The boys and girls of our school are very much elated over the third place which was awarded our exhibit at the Pumpkin Show. The work exhibited by our school was produced in less than four weeks. It was made possible by the co-operation of every department of our school from the first grade through the high school.

HOPE TO PROFIT

We hope to profit by our first experience and offer greater competition for high honors next year.

HIGH SCHOOL HAPPENINGS

Nineteen students rode to Columbus on Sunday, bus Saturday to attend High School Day at Ohio State University. The campus, the crowd-filled stadium, the band, the strutting drum major and the cheer leaders are impressions of their visit just as vivid as State's victory.

The ball teams met Washington at Washington to be defeated by these scores: Boys 4-8; girls 8-22.

Mussolini and Poet "Make Up"

The poet and Mussolini.

Italy's two most famous persons have decided to make up. As a result, Premier Benito Mussolini, with good humored willingness, went to see Gabriele D'Annunzio at the latter's fantastic estate, Vittoriale, on the shores of Lake Garda. The aged, one-eyed poet, hero of the Fiume liberation expedition, since 1924 has refused to stir from his monastic seclusion, even to pay his respect to Il Duce. So the black shirt dictator pocketed his pride and went visiting.

Alien, at Bay, Screams "No!" in Lindbergh Case

Hauptmann Like Tiger As New Jersey Officer Asks of Child's Death.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. Bruno Richard Hauptmann, whose

answer is a hysterical "No!" to the charge that he killed the Lindbergh baby, may know late today whether or not he is to be extradited to New Jersey to stand trial for the murder of the child.

In the Bronx supreme court, where the habeas corpus hearing is in progress, the state of New Jersey, which is striving to extradite the former German machine-gunner to try him for murder, has to more witnesses to call to the stand. Whether all of them will be summoned depends upon the circumstances, according to Attorney General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey.

The most damaging witness against Hauptmann so far produced by the prosecution is Albert Osborn, noted handwriting expert, who testified that the penmanship on the Lindbergh ransom note was unquestionably the same as that on the application blanks Hauptmann filled out when he applied for his automobile licenses.

Hauptmann was the star witness at the hearing. His alibi in effect was this:

"I was at home on the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped," he testified. "On the night of March 1, 1932, when the Lindbergh baby was abducted from his home at Hopewell, N. J., he was in New York City. He could not remember what he did that day but he recalled that on this particular night he drove in his car from his home in the Bronx to the factory of Christian Frederickson, in the Bronx, where his wife was employed, and took her home. He and his wife remained at home that night, Hauptmann insisted. Asked what he had done that day his memory was vague. He could not recall whether he had worked as a carpenter at the Majestic apartment hotel on the west side of New York City or whether he had spent the day around a Sixth Avenue employment agency looking for work."

LOSES HIS POISE
Hauptmann, a shrewd, cagey and cautious witness, lost his poise completely when, at the close of his testimony, Attorney General Wilentz accused him by interrogation of being the slayer of the Lindbergh baby.

Defense Attorney James M. Fawcett had asked Hauptmann if he knew anything about the kidnapping and the witness replied that he did not. He also asserted he was not in New Jersey when the abduction took place.

Suddenly Attorney General Wilentz leaped to his feet and demanded: "Didn't you build a ladder? Didn't you go up that ladder? Didn't you murder the Lindbergh baby?"

Hauptmann, as near to the breaking point as at any time since his arrest, seemed about to leap from the witness chair as he roared a hysterical "No!" to all three questions.

The face of the prisoner was a study. It had been pale throughout the three hours and twenty minutes he had been on the stand, but now, at the conclusion of his testimony, these final parting shots caused his face to grow even paler.

He was like a tiger at bay. His hands clenched the sides of the witness chair. His small, narrow eyes glared as he threw glances of hate at his inquisitor.

Just before Wilentz threw these faraway blasts at Hauptmann, defense Attorney Fawcett had asked the witness in a kindly tone if he had been in or about Hopewell on March 1, 1932. In a low, monotonous tone, which he had employed almost throughout his testimony, Hauptmann replied: "No."

The poker-faced ex-German convict showed his venom, however, when Wilentz hurled the murder charge at him. His demeanor changed in a flash. His cry of "No!" to this murder charge rang throughout the silent courtroom. The Hauptmann denial, and the manner in which he made it, was the dramatic highlight of the session.

While the prisoner was on the stand, Wilentz quoted from his testimony at the district attorney's office in the Bronx, soon after his arrest, to show discrepancies between his stories then and at the recent hearing. He pinched three definite lies on Hauptmann.

Drought Alleviation

LARAMIE, Wyoming. Future droughts in Wyoming may be largely alleviated through use of underground water, according to Dr. S. H. Knight, state geologist and professor of geology at the state university here. A recent survey, he said, revealed that one-third of the area of the state was underlaid with underground water at a depth that would in the long run pay for its recovery.

Pigeon Leaves Court

SEATTLE, Wash. Throckmorton has left. Tired of the tedious court routine, the fledgling pigeon which flew into Superior Judge Chester A. Batchelor's courtroom here several weeks ago, has recovered from his exhaustion and left the legal confines to join his cronies on the old perch on top of the County City building.
